About Me

Stepped into the programming world in elementary school. My nature of always trying to solve the important issues in the society lead to me to learn App Development. I started writing Windows Phone & Android Apps back in 2013 and became really good at it. After graduating from my college, I started up Together with one of my colleagues. Raised funds twice from private investors. Within no time it was one of the trending social apps in India. Being the CTO@Together, I worked across the stack and implemented most of the modern frameworks and architecture patterns.

I recently developed very keen interest in Functional Reactive Programming. Eventually started working with RxSwift on iOS and Redux on ReactJS. My most recent work includes working on MVI / VIPER architecture using ReactiveX libraries.
